INDIA'S LINES BREAK

New Delhi (AP)—The Chinese Communists have broken through the main Indian defense line at the eastern end of the Himalayas, captured Walong and launched attacks on two other key points of the battle line, a defense ministry spokesman said Sunday.

Senator Chavez Is Dead

Washington (AP)—Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, colorful, cigar-smoking descendant of an old Spanish-American family, died suddenly Sunday of a heart attack after a long battle with cancer of the neck. He was 74.

Members of the family said death came at approximately 5:45 a.m. CST in Georgetown University Hospital. Only hospital staff personnel were present.

The body is tentatively scheduled to be sent to Santa Fe Monday to lie in state at the state capitol on Tuesday with services to be conducted in Immaculate Conception Church in Albuquerque Wednesday. Burial will follow there, the family said.

Surprise
Chavez's sudden death caught official Washington by surprise. Only Saturday an aide had reported Chavez was "doing fine" and would be released Sunday to rest at home.

A former member of the House and a Senator since 1935, Chavez's life spanned many political battles. A Democrat, he leaves a vacancy that changes the senate lineup to 67 Democrats and 32 Republicans.

Chavez's post presumably could be filled by appointment of a Republican by New Mexico's outgoing Republican governor, Edwin L. Mechem. (See page 17.)

Meredith 'On Verge' Of Leaving Ole Miss

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — A living symbol of the desegregation fight may stand on the verge of leaving the school he fought to get in.

James H. Meredith, 29, the Negro who penetrated the color barrier at the University of Mississippi, says himself the pressures of his position have become close to intolerable. And reports are rampant that he may be flunking out.

At his regular weekend refuge in Memphis, where the tight-lipped Meredith has shown more candor than elsewhere, he says he intends to finish the job.

Personal Crisis

But events, and Meredith's own words, indicate the Air Force veteran faces a personal crisis that has come closer to removing him from the school than the mobs that rioted at his arrival.

"Last week was the worst I've had at school," Meredith said a week ago in a news conference here.

But as far as incidents and excitement were concerned it was one of the quietest weeks since he arrived on campus the evening of Sept. 30.

Not Continued

Meredith obviously expected violent opposition but not the continued pressure of resistance and publicity.

"Look at what happened at Georgia," he said in reference to the University of Georgia integration. "It was all over in a few days and people went about their business."

"But that was Georgia, not Mississippi," Meredith lamented. On the shady Mississippi campus, he said, life has not been pleasant and normal study has been impossible.

Given Attention

For the first few weeks students shouted deprecations as he walked about the campus. Firecrackers were shot off outside his dormitory. Angry crowds gathered. A rock was thrown through a cafeteria window as he ate. A bottle crashed through his car window.

But on Halloween night things reached a peak and soldiers and campus police raided two dormitories. The next day Chancellor J. D. Williams cracked down on demonstrators with threats of expulsion and the incidents stopped.

What bothers him more, Meredith says, is the constant surveillance by newsmen, marshals and soldiers. Meredith says he spends many hours each day meeting these "other responsibilities" connected with his stay at college.

Takes Time

"This of course takes up time, and it detracts and takes attention away from my studies," he said.

Another source of tension is the constant presence of his protectors. Neither Meredith nor the marshals will comment on reports of friction between them but Meredith has said he wants the guard removed.

"There have been a lot of things we've had to be concerned with ever since we have been in school," Meredith explained. "Actually, it had become obvious to me that I couldn't meet all these other responsibilities and then study and get my lessons like I should."

Cut Classes

So, a week ago he packed up and left for the weekend a day early, cutting several classes and missing two tests.

"I thought I had better come away and think about it

Cubans Seek Freedom For Leader Of Pro-Castro Ring

New York (UPI) — Cuban diplomats at the United Nations Sunday waged a quiet but determined legal battle to gain freedom for an attorney named as the head of a smashed pro-Castro sabotage ring.

But U.S. legal experts stated flatly that the United States would try Roberto Santiesteban Casanova, 27, who arrived Oct. 3 under a diplomatic passport as an attaché to the Cuban U.N. mission.

Santiesteban was arrested Saturday in a fast-moving FBI raid that uncovered a cache of weapons federal authorities said were supplied by the Cuban U.N. mission. At the time he still did not have his diplomatic papers which were still being processed by the State Department.

Because of this, the United States said it could legally try him on espionage and sabotage charges. He was named as head of a ring that planned a widespread terror-sabotage campaign aimed at New York department stores during the busy Christmas season and oil refineries across the Hudson River in New Jersey.

Also arrested in the raids were two Cubans — both identified as members of the Communist Party — Jose Garcia Orellana, 42, and Antonio Superior Cabrera, 22. They were also held for prosecution.

while and try to figure out what I'm going to do," he said.

There was speculation that Meredith had come to town to quit, but he denied this. He said he was going back. "To try to bring about a situation which will admit normal study. Definitely will remain at school."

Won't Break Health

But later he said, "until this condition comes about, I'm not going to break my health by fighting an impossible situation."

This week on campus, some changes were evident. Reports came from sources close to Meredith that he had stopped studying seriously, that he spent most of his time pouring over the mountains of mail he receives.

Meredith has indicated that he has not made up the tests he missed but that he planning to. His teachers won't comment.

Part Of Rush

The campus scene is different. Meredith once walked alone with many eyes on him. Now he is part of the rush of youngsters dashing from class to class.

"Nobody pays any attention to him anymore," commented a reporter who has been on campus from the start.

But Meredith may still face serious trouble. Sources within the university who won't be quoted say he is failing several of his courses, possibly 3 of the 5.

Meredith refuses to talk about grades but his reaction indicates his staying has little to do with success in the classroom.

Police Arrest Ten Airmen After Shooting

Ten persons were arrested by police Sunday in connection with the gunshot-wounding of a Lincoln man in front of the Cornhusker Elks Lodge 579 at 229 So. 9th early Sunday morning.

Officers said Wallace David Gay of 720 No. 24th told them he was standing just south of the front door when some men pulled up in a car in front of the Town Pump liquor store, 245 So. 9th.

Gay said 3 of the car's occupants jumped out, and one of them fired 4 or 5 shots from a revolver. One of the shots struck him across the stomach and right arm.

Gay refused immediate medical attention, according to police.

Detective Lt. Merl Hesser said all 10 persons arrested were Lincoln Air Force Base personnel.

By Glenn Kreuscher, Farm Editor

For every seven workers on American farms today, it takes 6 other people to supply the production tools and services needed to keep the farm plant running.

Another 11 million non-farm workers handle the products from the time they leave the farm until 185 million U.S. consumers buy them.

These were some of the figures given careful consideration at the Diamond Anniversary Convention of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges in Washington, D.C.

C. M. Ferguson, of the University of Wisconsin's agricultural extension center for advanced study, told the college group that farmers spend $25 billion in hard cash every year for goods and services to grow the products from their farms.

Farming—the core of the giant agricultural industry—is in fewer hands, but stronger ones, said Ferguson.

Extension workers were told that any future decline in the number of farms will not bring a decline in the need for extension service.

"The problems of applying modern technology and management to the farm are increasing and urban families want help from the extension agents for 4-H and other services," said Ferguson.

As more of agricultural jobs are done off the farm, the demand for trained personnel goes upward, delegates to the meeting were told.

There were 33,068 agricultural students in land-grant institutions for 1962, the 4th consecutive yearly increase in enrollment.

From the job standpoint records show that there will be near two jobs available for every graduate, extension leaders said.

The moral of the story is you can be in agriculture and not be on the farm, yet you can be an ever vital part of keeping America the best fed nation at the most reasonable price, point out extension leaders.

A record number of entries have been nominated for the Nebraska Angus Breeders Futurity in February as 40 Angus breeders named 200 entries for the show at Columbus, according to the Nebraska Angus Newsletter.

National Farm-City Week November 16-22 has gained attention of many rural-urban groups. The event supported by the Kiwanis Club and many local farm-city week committees will find numerous events aimed at the part the farmer and city resident can provide in joint efforts.

The Certified Markets throughout the nation are pledging their full support and will emphasize the continued awareness of the public in noting the efficiency and production records established by the American farmer.

To help settle the question of whether a freshly killed pheasant should be bled quickly or just tossed into sack until the hunter gets home, a taste test was run by poultry, and food and nutrition scientists at the College of Agriculture.

A panel of tasters smacked their lips and voted a narrow gustatory margin to the pheasant killed and cleaned by commercial poultry processing methods.

But the same group mopped up the gravy from a bird carried in a sack all day and agreed that the difference in flavor was too small to affect their pleasure.

Want to go on a livestock tour? Then check with the York County Breeders and Feeders who will be leaving Waco at 1 p.m. Monday. They will wind up with an evening program at the Ideal Cafe in York.

Farm stops in the Waco area will be made at DeWain Watt, Rex Bailey, Ralph Kubick and Orville Hoffschneider farms.

Tuesday will be the annual meeting of the Polk County extension service in the Methodist Church Basement at Osceola starting at 7:30 p.m. The Polk 4-H achievement day will follow on Friday at the Polk Community Hall.

Solons Face Double Duty

Nebraska lawmakers convening in Lincoln Monday morning for the opening of the Legislative Council will have both official and unofficial duties on their collective agenda.

Officially the council, comprised of 1961 Legislature members, will be listening to 17 reports from the committees which have been conducting a variety of studies on matters concerning state government.

Unofficially, the members will be engaged in their biennial activity of seeking favor for desired positions in the 1963 Legislature — the speakership, committee chairmanships, posts on the Committee on Committees, and chairmanship of the Legislative Council.

Top interest traditionally centers upon the speakership. Sen. William Moulton of Omaha has long been in the running for 1963 honors, and two other candidates are on the horizon — Sens. Jules Burbach of Crofton and Harold Stryker of Rising City.

Dear Automobile Owner:

A Joyful Thanksgiving to you and your family

In extending best wishes for happiness during the Thanksgiving Holiday, may we take this opportunity to urge you to join with us in a "Drive for a Safe Holiday!" If each of us will observe the following holiday safe driving tips and bring them to the attention of members of the family and motoring friends, we will help assure a happier and safer Holiday for all.

BE SURE YOUR CAR IS SAFE

USE SEAT BELTS

PLAN A SAFE DRIVE

BE ALERT TO HOLIDAY HAZARDS

WATCH OUT FOR OTHERS

USE COURTESY ABUNDANTLY

Drive with good tires . . . properly adjusted brakes . . . lights and turn signals working . . . windshield wipers and defrosters functioning properly.

Whenever you drive. Seat belts are "Circles of Safety" for you and your family.

Allow plenty of time for your holiday travel. On long trips make frequent stops. Arrive relaxed.

Drive in keeping with road, weather and traffic conditions. Remember, most holiday accidents involve drinking and speed too fast for conditions.

Make allowances for unpredictable driver and pedestrian actions. Give yourself and others an extra margin of safety.

Resolve to "Make Courtesy Your Code of the Road." It pays!

Full enjoyment of the Holiday Season is something to which all of us look forward. With this enjoyment, however,—and we know you agree—goes individual responsibility to protect your family, yourself and your community. Let's all DRIVE for a Safe Holiday!

Cordially Yours,

Soviets Say Red China Siding With Imperialists

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union defended its Cuban rocket withdrawal Sunday and accused Communist China of siding with the imperialists.

The accusation was made in a page and a half article in the Communist party organ, Pravda. It was one of the toughest replies yet to Red Chinese criticism.

The article was written by Boris N. Ponomarev, member of the party central committee and of the party secretariat, a historian and one of the principal Soviet theorists. It was published on the eve of the meeting of the central committee at which Premier Khrushchev's policy on industry, agriculture and probably his foreign policy are coming up for review.

At Albanians

The author aimed his blows not at the Chinese Communists but at the Albanians, who in the Soviet-Chinese ideological debates have been the principal spokesmen for the Chinese position and almost always the target for replies.

There also was an implied attack on China's frontier quarrel with India. The article said one cannot preach about the struggle against imperialism and at the same time "carry out provocative actions which do not strengthen, but undermine the cause of peace and socialism. That is what is actually done in practice by the Albanian leaders."

—MORE SEA DISASTERS— Oil Tankers Bump; Toll May Reach 36

Kawasaki, Japan (AP) — Two oil tankers collided Sunday in a narrow, fog-shrouded channel of Tokyo Bay and set off a gasoline fire that left the entire 36-man crew of one vessel, the Japanese Munakata Maru, dead or missing.

Three crewmen on two barges caught in the flames also disappeared.

It was another in a chain of sea disasters that began on the other side of the world last week with gales in the Bermuda area of the Atlantic. Storms in the North Sea and the Mediterranean boosted the toll.

Nine Britons perished with the capsizing of a lifeboat under a huge wave at the entrance of Seaham Harbor Saturday night. They were 5 lifeboat men and 4 or 5 fishermen plucked from a gale-battered fishing boat.

Battered

A Mediterranean gale ripped a cotton-carrying British freighter from its moorings in Naples Harbor and battered it on rocks until it sank.

U.S. planes abandoned the hunt for 15 men still missing from the 25-man crew which abandoned the burning Greek freighter Captain George northeast of Bermuda last Thursday. Seven of the explosives-laden freighter's crew had been rescued and 3 bodies recovered.

In the same general area, a British tanker steamed to Bermuda with the 13 crewmen of a Canadian motorship, the East Star. The East Star was abandoned after developing a list of 20 to 25 degrees.

Principals in the Tokyo Bay disaster were the 1,972-ton Munakata Maru, inbound from Yokohama with 350,000 gallons of gasoline, and the 21,634-ton Norwegian tanker Tharald Brovig, outbound empty for the Persian Gulf.

In Narrow Canal

They crashed and locked together in the fog of the 550-yard-wide Kawasaki Canal only about 200 yards from shore, 12 miles southwest of Tokyo. Gasoline leaking from the Munakata Maru fed the flames of a fire which seared that ship and licked across the water.

All 47 members of the Norwegian tanker's crew were rescued, some after jumping overboard. They included the skipper, Capt. P. Pedersen and 4 stewardesses. Ten suffered minor injuries. The Japanese Red Cross supplied clothing for the survivors at a seamen's club.

By nightfall rescuers had picked up the bodies of 5 crewmen from the Japanese craft. These included the master, Capt. Hiroshi Kaibori. Searchers said they feared all the rest perished within their blazing ship. Fear of an explosion delayed an on-the-spot check.

De Gaulle Collects Vote Of Confidence

Paris (AP) — French voters gave President Charles de Gaulle another ringing vote of confidence Sunday through a surprising wave of support for Gaullist candidates for the national assembly.

Mounting returns Monday were a stinging rebuke to the old political parties which De Gaulle has been fighting with scorn and sarcasm. Some of France's best known politicians who had based their campaign on opposition to De Gaulle and his strong presidential policies went down to defeat.

In the shakeup of political traditions, only the Communists appeared to be successfully bucking the Gaullist tide, increasing their popular vote over the last parliamentary elections, in 1958, but still short of their pull in pre-De Gaulle 1956.

Real Landslide

Interior Minister Roger Frey called the results "a real landslide" for the Gaullist Union for a New Republic (UNR), which is pledged to unswerving support for De Gaulle. He predicted the UNR would elect a majority in the 481-seat assembly in the two-stage balloting, which ends next Sunday.

In 1958, when De Gaulle was considered at the peak of his popularity, the UNR managed to win only 188 seats.

"This is the first time any party has ever had more votes than the communists," said Frey, a UNR member.

"The UNR is now the first party in France."

UNR Takes 48

The first round balloting decided 100 seats. Of these, the UNR took 43. Ten other seats went to candidates of political parties who have supported De Gaulle and were endorsed by Gaullist organizations.

Besides the UNR deputies, those elected were Popular Republican Movement 17 (including 3 who had Gaullist endorsement); Independents-Peasants 18 (including 7 who had Gaullist endorsement); Communists 7; Radical Socialists and Allies 7; Socialist 1; no party label 2.

Complete officials returns from the 18,931,733 ballots cast in metropolitan France gave the UNR 31.9% of the popular vote compared to only 17.6% in 1958.

Reds Get 21.8%

The Communists drew 21.8% of the popular vote, compared to 18.9% in 1958 and 25.7% in 1956.

All the other major old line parties ran behind their 1958 percentages: the Socialists 12.6 (15.5); Leftists Catholic Popular Republic Movement 8.9 (11.8); Radical Socialists and Allies 7.5 (11.5); and Independents-Peasants 13.4 (19.9).

The Gaullist vote was expected to be magnified in actual assembly seats under the complicated French system of voting.

Grange Is 'Concerned'

Fort Wayne, Ind. (AP) — The National Grange expressed "deep concern" over what it termed the "trend toward centralization of governmental authority and responsibility."

The sentiment was expressed in one of several resolutions passed at the group's 96th annual convention.

The resolution maintained that a "disturbing portion" of the obligations of local and state governments have been surrendered to the federal government. Other sections of the resolution deplored the "encroachment" by any of the 3 branches of government upon the functions of another and said there should be strict limitations on government competition with private business.

Game Is Never Ended

By WILLIAM

O. DOBLER

A lot of things went haywire in the last election, from the predicted point of view, but that hasn't stopped speculation on the future. The guessing game in politics seems to feed upon itself. The reversals of form that voters continually hit the pollsters with only give the guessers something else to chew upon after the count has been completed. If the election showed one thing for certain, it is that the decision of the American people is an awfully hard thing to predict.

Many clever deals were upset by independent-minded voters. Congressional Quarterly reports that Democratic gerrymandering paid off in California where the Democrats picked up eight new House members—all seats taken from the Midwest, South and East as a result of population losses. But the manipulation of districts in other areas was not so successful. New York Republicans had hoped to make a net gain of four House seats by gerrymandering in New York but made no gains at all. The Democratic gerrymandering of North Carolina backfired but good, resulting in election of two Republicans instead of retiring the single Republican incumbent as it was intended to do.

Throughout the nation, there were many examples of voter refusal to follow their form charts. Oklahoma elected its first Republican governor since it became a state and Vermont did the same thing but on the Democratic side. In all, the unexpected just about came up to the level of the expected.

But has this caused the experts to stop their speculation? Not on your life, it hasn't. Now they are intent upon predicting what all the changes will bring about in the 1963 session of Congress. They already have pigeon-holed all the new faces that will appear in the House and Senate and the end result shows some gain for President Kennedy.

CQ reports that Democrats privately claim a gain of 10 to 15 votes for controversial administration measures in the House while Republicans see no change in the conservative-liberal split. In the House, the Democrats have lost four seats and the Republicans have picked up two new ones. The Democrats made a net gain of four in their Senate membership. But of more importance than the net gains and losses is the philosophy of the new Congress. This, of course, is an individual matter and a number of new faces will be showing up in both the House and Senate. In its analysis of things, CQ shows Kennedy's Social Security medical care plan getting by the Senate. It lost in 1962 with a 48-to-52 vote against but is projected to come out in 1963 with a 52-to-48 victory.

This would put it before the House where no test has yet been made and, therefore, where no projection can be made. The CQ analysis shows a number of individual changes in the House but little change on key issues. The lineup shows the President still a loser on his general aid to education bill, on a department of urban affairs, on the kind of farm bill he wants and on foreign aid. He was given enough support on his tax program this year to assume that his expected loss of seven votes on this subject would not hurt him much, if at all. Thus, the only Kennedy gain that seems certain is a majority Senate vote for the medicare plan and it then must pass what might still be a very hostile House.

The real fact is that none of us will know what either the House or Senate does until it takes action on its own. There simply is no way of telling what a new member of either arm of Congress will do on any given piece of legislation. Circumstances can change so that even the votes of incumbent members cannot be foretold. The administration seems elated over the fact that it pretty well held the line on party membership in the House and Senate and this appears to be a valid generality. It is a reversal of the traditional pattern in what are called the off-year elections, those between the presidential contests. But even this generality has some tempering influences.

While not a direct factor in the House and Senate, the GOP picked up governorships in some big states while Democratic gains on this front were in smaller states. Also, the election results might be interpreted as a sign of moderation by the voters—their refusal to follow established lines of action. The pattern of voting was one of indifference to party labels which might be interpreted as a sign of middle-ground thinking. This was true even within states where, as in Nebraska, both parties were left with something to crow about and something to lament.

The situation boils down to little more than an open question and one that will not be answered for another few months. It is doubtful, however, that the nation will start moving extremely in any single direction when Congress convenes again in January. Granting fully the claims of either party would still leave the lineup in both House and Senate on the brink of many issues. The best guess is for a Congress little, if any, more active than the last one.

A Crossing Of Party Lines

Line Can't Be Crossed

There is always a point beyond which neither labor nor management will go in their negotiations with one another and skillful bargainers on both sides are quick to discern what that point is with their opponent. In so doing, they are able to get the most out of their bargaining by knowing how far, how long and what to push for. A skillful bargainer is not just a stubborn one, but one who knows when it is time to accept an offer.

But labor has something of this same thing to contend with within its own ranks. The Associated Press reports from London that the union has called off a threatened strike against the Ford Motor Co. there. The strike was cancelled without explanation after a demonstration by workers' wives against the strike action. The wives chanted, "We need money for Christmas."

Wisconsin Acts

The University of Wisconsin has issued an ultimatum to its campus social organizations.

It served notice that discriminatory membership practices cannot be forced on university student groups by national officers, advisors or others from off campus.

This decision while largely negative in that it does not intrude on a local chapter's right of choice, is, nevertheless, positive to the extent of requiring local chapters to report on present membership practices. It does not assure an end to a variety of discriminations but it does offer protection to groups which resolve to break with the past.

The decision will encounter mixed feelings. It may not prompt a campus social revolution or change traditional practices of sororities and fraternities overnight. But it opens the gate. It also relieves the University of Wisconsin from any cloud of ambivalence.

The climate has changed in regard to racial and other types of discrimination. The logic of equality is turning toward what an individual is rather than who. An educational institution that is educated enough to realize that a competent athlete is a competent athlete regardless of his skin, or that learning associates with the learned without regard to genealogy; that the white man's mathematics is the same as the red man's mathematics, can hardly admit that the rule is limited.

Dissenters from the Wisconsin decision will point to the contribution fraternities and sororities have made to college life. But they are to be reminded that enforced discrimination has become a stigma which Wisconsin has done much to relieve.

Area Trading, No Go

The Nebraska Supreme Court demolished an area of private agreement between electric power interests when it ordered the Omaha Public Power District to serve a customer in Dodge county.

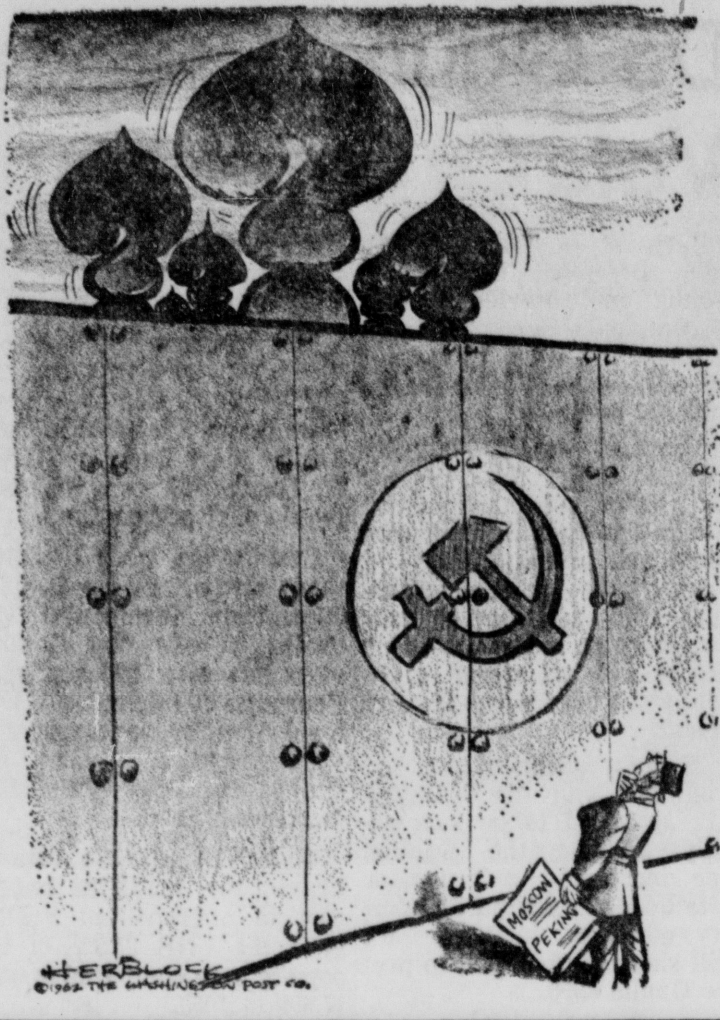

In brief, the issue arose when the Dawson County Feed Products Company, doing business north of Fremont decided to buy its electric power from OPPD whose transmission lines were near enough to provide the service, and whose rates were more pleasing to the customer. Service was refused because of a prior unwritten agreement between OPPD and the municipal electric power system at Fremont which gave the area to the latter.

When the customer sought to protect his right of choice the district court of Dodge county responded affirmatively. The Supreme Court upheld the lower court's position.

One doesn't doubt but that the two utilities engaged in area agreements in an effort to avoid erosive relationships in places where overlapping occurs. Similar arrangements have been attempted, in some instances successfully, in other parts of Nebraska where the interests of two agencies overlap or conflict. And there have been instances where agencies' failure to agree resulted in costly litigation and destructive controversy. But these cozy agreements have no justification in law and tend toward monopolistic practices, mainly in that the agencies assume a discretion not countenanced by law in a way that destroys the discretion of the customer.

If the decisions sharpens the dilemma of the state's various power agencies that sharpening reflects only on a weak spot in the state's body of public power law which in a number of ways needs better definitions and modernizing.

DREW PEARSON

China-Russ Split Showing In Cuba

WASHINGTON—Intelligence reports from Havana regarding the talks between Fidel Castro and Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan are fragmentary and difficult to put together. However, one source, considered reliable, reports that Castro flew into a carpet-biting fury during his first session with Mikoyan.

The bearded bombast-hurler got hysterical and accused the Russians of humiliating him by agreeing to dismantle missile bases without consulting him or even giving him advance notice.

Castro even complained bitterly that he had been barred from inspecting missile bases on his own soil.

He shouted and threatened. The patient Mikoyan tried to calm him, reminding him that Cuba was 80 per cent dependent on the communist bloc for its industrial needs, even buttered up the eccentric premier by promising to ship Russian factories in place of dismantled missiles. He also paid lip service to Castro's demand for the withdrawal of U.S. naval forces from Guantanamo.

However, he was not able to budge Castro either on UN inspection of the missile sites or the removal of Soviet bombers.

Mikoyan could, of course, do what the United States did to Prince Phouma in Laos when he refused to go along with the American policy of a neutral Laotian government. We cut off his aid. Russia could also cut off Castro's aid. But Castro is reported to have warned Mikoyan that in this case he would get aid from Red China, and Red Chinese leaders, already critical of Khrushchev as a Munich appeaser in Cuba, have stated that they would supply the aid.

If Castro was a disciplined communist, the Russians would have no trouble. But he isn't. It was a surprise to the Kremlin when he announced last year that he was a confirmed Leninist. He is anything but that. A confirmed Leninist would have bowed to Mikoyan five minutes after he arrived in Havana.

Note—One intelligence report from Moscow claims that Premier Khrushchev is more upset with Castro than Kennedy is.

Tom McIntyre, the new Democratic senator from Republican New Hampshire, paid a courtesy call on President Kennedy the other day. McIntyre tried to think of a tactful way to tell the President that he would have to put New Hampshire's interests ahead of party loyalty.

"Sometimes I have to tell the folks I don't like Harvard," he warned gently, referring to the President's favorite university. "And I also read the New York Herald Tribune."

Kennedy chuckled appreciatively.

Note—During the same White House visit, New Hampshire's Democratic governor-elect John King reported that he had defeated his Republican rival by 40,000 votes. The President scratched his head unbelievably.

Cuban Delay No Sign Of Failure

WASHINGTON—While defusing the Cuban crisis is taking rather longer than had been anticipated in the first flush of the agreement with the Soviet Union, those in charge believe that, in the classic phrase, the situation is well in hand.

This is based on the conviction that the United States holds the trump cards. The hand the President is playing looks to those sitting beside him at the table as follows:

1. Hidden missiles. The caves in which such missiles beyond the 42 already removed might be concealed are not invulnerable. Trustworthy sources of information are available which within a relatively short time could spot concealment.

2. The bombers. These are under constant surveillance and their utility is believed to be limited in relation to the resources the Soviets have made available. Under the agreement they will have to go. There is more than one way to eliminate them.

3. The blockade. This will be strictly maintained until every phase of the agreement is carried out. It can be tightened overnight to cover not only the Cuban oil supply but food supplies as well.

The current assessment is based on evidence that Anastas Mikoyan is doing everything possible to get Fidel Castro and the little group of hard-core communists around him to agree to the terms set out in Premier Khrushchev's note to President Kennedy of Oct. 28. The very fact that Mikoyan, ranking so high in the Kremlin hierarchy, should spend more than two weeks in Havana in a series of conferences that appear thus far to have been fruitless is taken as one piece of evidence that what is happening is not merely a sham behind which Moscow is concealing with Castro.

Among the Latin-American powers that still maintain embassies in Havana there was talk of breaking off relations with the Castro regime. This was quietly discouraged by Washington. From the manifold sources of intelligence in Cuba a pretty complete picture is being put together of the status of the Castro dictatorship.

Another source of strength is the satisfaction over the way in which the whole Cuban operation was mounted. This was a demonstration of America's capacity to employ a sizable conventional force and to assemble it in short order. Beginning on Oct. 16 the wheels were set in motion and with no visible hitches the blockade was put in place and air and ground forces were stationed at strategic points in readiness for any eventuality.

A southern aerial defense line is being completed from Florida across Texas. One of the weaknesses in the American defense system has been the absence of such a line.

GAIL BORDEN

Profiles In Science

When Gail Borden (1801-1874) invented a process for condensing milk, he had never even heard of disease germs.

Still, his driving motive was to make sure that milk fed to babies was pure, and his ultimate success was the result of his finding a way to keep bacteria out of milk.

Borden's name is perpetuated not only in the dairy products company that bears his name. It is enshrined in the history of Texas, where he went to live in 1829.

He was in the midst of Texas' struggle for independence from Mexico that led to the Lone Star State's joining the United States. By the time independence and statehood had been won, Borden had become a "tall Texan," even though he was born in Norwich, New York.

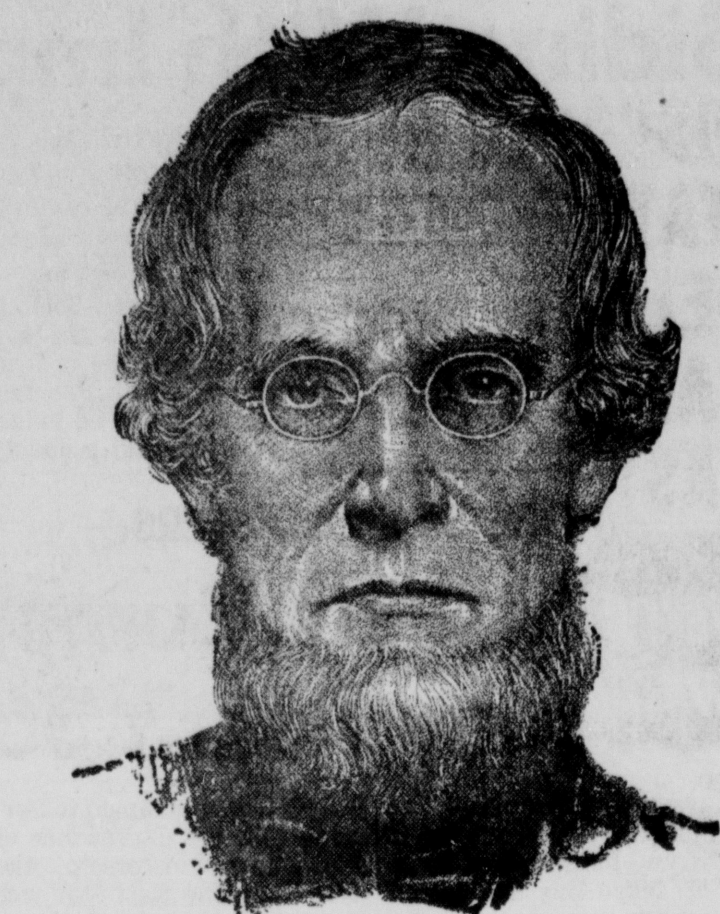

Samuel Houston, president of the Republic of Texas, appointed Borden collector of the Port of Galveston. While he held this position, he returned to his old dream of preserving the purity of food by condensation.

After his wife and a son died in an epidemic, his ambition to perfect a way of making food safe to eat grew more fervent.

His first experiments were with meat. He dehydrated beef — reducing 120 pounds of beef to about 10 pounds by boiling — and mixed the extract with flour, then kneaded the paste into biscuits and baked them. The biscuits were used by parties of emigrants on their way to California and Oregon, and in Arctic expeditions.

Despite their acceptance, and although the biscuits won awards at the famous Crystal Palace Exhibition in London in 1851, the process was not profitable.

Coming home from England he saw children of steerage passengers stricken with fatal disease from drinking contaminated milk. Two years later Borden applied for a patent for a process of condensing milk by boiling off 80% of the water in an air-tight vacuum pan. The secret of the purity was the exclusion of air, for, as Pasteur proved to French vintners, even the purest foods spoil if exposed to the minute organisms in the air. Chance helped Borden organize the New York Condensed Milk Co. in 1857, the company now known as the Borden Co. The Civil War—when marching armies created a great demand for the pure, convenient form of milk—made the company a success.

Cuba, India Episodes UN Eye-Openers

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Premier Khrushchev's abortive attempt to snatch a communist beachhead in Cuba and Red China's barefaced invasion of India have had the effect of a double-barreled shotgun on those Afro-Asians who were inclined to scoff at Western warnings and who grandly proclaimed that their countries were safe and secure from the Red tiger as long as they stayed aloof from the cold war.

In Cuba it was demonstrated for the unhappy neutrals that Moscow will risk nuclear war to gain ground in its design for world domination. In India the 2,500 Indian soldiers already killed by the invading Chinese proved that Peiping resorts to war as did Stalin in a shortcut to conquest.

The shifting attitudes were reflected at UN, where the Africans and Asians are now in a position to outvote the West on any issue if they stick together and add to their voting strength by wording resolutions in such a way that the Soviet bloc plays along for reasons of its own. However, the Cuban crisis and the invasion of India contained shocks, among them the sudden realization that both events hang together in that they reveal conflict within the communist bloc and particularly between Moscow and Peiping on policies and control of the global Communist party.

To rattle their thinking, the Asians and to some extent the Africans ten days ago found themselves without their accustomed spokesmen on neutrality and "brotherhood," the evil Krishna Menon. They found that the woolly-haired American-hater had left the doors of India wide open, given the otherwise tough Indian army obsolete weapons, and lulled the people of Asia to sleep with honeyed assurances that the communists were no danger and were interested solely in promoting friendship and neighborly co-existence with all the peoples of all lands. They saw what happened, and as indicated at UN, most of them feel a little sick at this moment.

Then again, the previously loud neutrals watched in silent appraisal the exceptional restraint employed by President Kennedy in compelling Premier Khrushchev to remove his nuclear threat from the Western hemisphere. It seemed to dawn on them that in a reverse position, Khrushchev and certainly the Peiping warlords would have acted rashly, and would have invaded Cuba without bothering about diplomatic notes and letters.

Secondly, they saw the Latin Americans rally behind President Kennedy for joint action, by voluntary consent against the communist menace and not by compulsory fear as is done behind the Iron Curtain in captive lands.

Thirdly, they were deeply impressed when President

Kennedy made haste to supply India modern arms to stem the communist invaders, despite the years of hatred against American poured out by Menon and the fact that Nehru's neurotic clamoring for the seating of Red China in UN has exasperated American public opinion to the point of hostile resentment of all neutral policies.

A first concrete result was that eight nations at UN which were until recently colonies of France in Africa voted against the seating of communist China. Ghana's powerful representative, Quaison-Sackey, last week urged Cuba to allow UN teams into the country to verify the removal of Soviet missiles and bombers.

An offshoot effect on the Afro-Asians has been the gathering within their ranks of a new courage. That is, they no longer tremble at the missile-rattling threats and war shouts coming out of the Kremlin from time to time, since now they understand these are primarily intended to terrify those who have opposed Moscow's goals. Khrushchev's hasty retreat in beaten dog fashion from Cuba taught the neutrals to take him less seriously, and from now on, he would find at the UN Assembly that shattering and stormy ultimatums have no impact on the Afro-Asians except to lower their respect for Khrushchev still further.

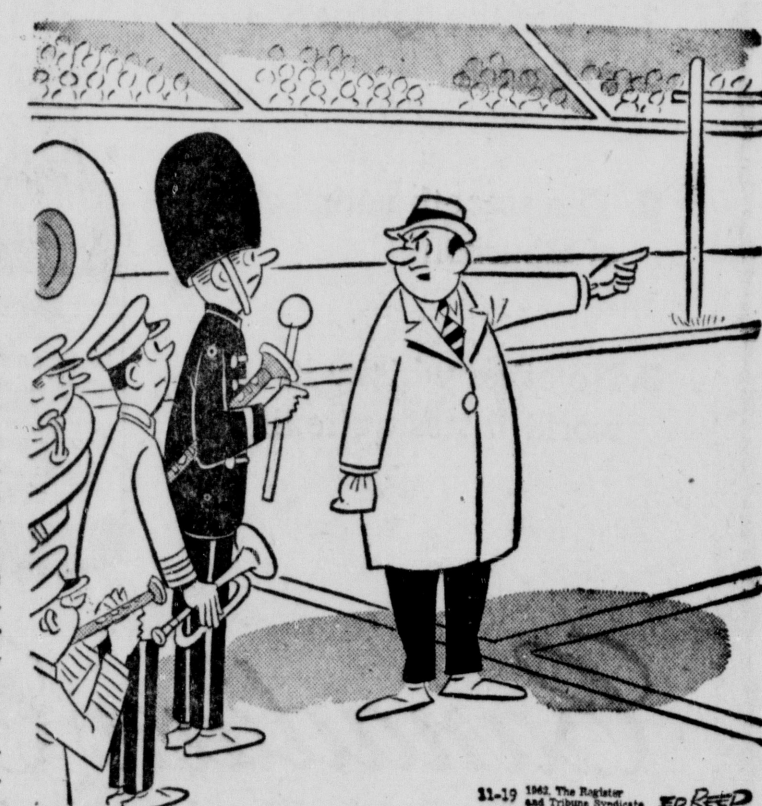

All of this does not mean the Afro-Asians will do a somersault in or out of UN and rush to the side of the West. They are still united on voting together on any and all issues in the category of "colonialism", which they abhor, and in resisting continuation of nuclear tests. They are against playing favorites in the cold war, but at least they have come to realize that the West is not all bad and the communist bloc not what it is cracked up to be by its false leaders.

On behalf of the League of Women Voters of Lincoln, I would like to thank The Star editorial staff and reporters for the clear and concise coverage given the recent city charter amendments, and the full-time mayor plan. Because the amendment wording was rather complex, voter education and understanding were particularly important. With The Star's excellent cooperation, we feel the job was well done.

Cuban Officials Ground All Domestic Flights

Havana (AP)—Cuban authorities grounded all domestic plane flights Sunday, presumably as a safety measure in view of the government's warning that Cuban anti-aircraft batteries will fire on any intruding planes.

No change was announced in international flights. However, foreign lines suspended service to Havana when the missile crisis started last month, leaving the field to Cubana Airlines.

A Cubana spokesman said that company expected to make flights Monday as scheduled to Mexico City and Prague, Czechoslovakia.

The Spanish Iberia airline had proposed to resume service to Havana Sunday. Word here was that an Iberia airliner from Madrid landed Sunday morning at Hamilton, Bermuda, then proceeded to Nassau, Bahamas, to await instructions from the line's Havana office.

Difficulty In Tracking U.S. Planes Caused Grounding

Washington (AP)—Radar difficulty in detecting and tracking U.S. reconnaissance planes may be a major reason for the Castro government's order grounding all domestic aviation in Cuba Sunday.

The action obviously is a sequel to Castro's warning, issued late last week, that surveillance planes flying over Cuba will be destroyed.

However, before they are shot down they must be located, identified and tracked.

Military radar for spotting and tracking aircraft has been installed hastily in recent months as part of the Soviet arms aid program for the Cuban ally. Russian technicians presumably operate the units, while at the same time they are attempting to train Cuban crews.

But there appears to be some question about the extent and efficiency of Cuba's radar system in its present form.

A primary requirement for radar, especially the kind used for swift flying jets, is the ability to separate friendly or false targets from a true target. This demands a high degree of "sophistication" in the equipment and in the ability of crews to interpret radar signals.

City Watching For Transformer Bid Competition

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

City officials will be watching with special interest the bid opening next Wednesday for three 75KVA distribution transformers.

The electrical equipment, itself, involves less than $2,000. But the focal point will be whether or not bid competition develops on the transformers.

City Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey says the city wants to learn what effect the federal anti-trust suits against electrical equipment manufacturers on bid-rigging have had on transformer prices.

"We want to see if there will be some price-cutting on the transformers," he explained. "Or if bid competition results only if other electrical hardware items are included."

Harvey said that 7 out of 8 bids recently taken for 80 electric watt-hour meters were identical. Seven bids, quoted $1,248 "to the penny" on the meters.

The lump sums of the bids varied only by the amount of price variation on the several hundred dollars worth of electrical hardware also included in the requested bid proposal. The less-than-$100-spread in bids was traceable only to quoted prices on the 6 items of pole-line hardware also included in the bidding.

Only one bidder cut the price—but only slightly—on the meters, but he was higher than his competitors on the hardware.

Harvey speculated this bidder would probably get the word from his supplier on this defection.

He pointed out that another bidder, who had cut slightly on meters in an earlier bid-opening, submitted only a lump sum bid without a price breakdown on subsequent bid-opening.

Next Wednesday should be a sterling test. Bid specifications are for transformers, and only transformers. The degree of competition, if any, should show on the face of the bids.

POSTCARD by

Sten Delaplante

From Panama, the Braniff jet takes off at midnight—a full load, for Peru is the most popular country with American tourists. Three hours later you arrive in Lima, the City of Kings. "Allow me to compliment you with a Pisco sour," said the guide.

This is an interesting local custom. Pisco sours arrive at odd moments, compliments of the management. Compliments of Braniff. Compliments of Lima Tours.

When it does not arrive, some people compliment themselves.

It is quite deceptive. It tastes a good deal like a small lemonade.

If memory serves (and the service has been terrible lately) the Pisco punch was a famous drink at the Bank Exchange in San Francisco's Golden Eighties.

The secret supposedly died with the bartender. I am afraid somebody here has rediscovered it.

A couple of compliments and you bounce off the walls—like a tennis ball.

Peru is a land of contrasts—the lethal Pisco sour is only one of them.

It is greatly beloved by the American tourist, having all the qualities that makes Eastman Kodak issue rich dividends.

It has spectacular ruins. The ruins stay in photographic spendor because it has not rained here in 2000 years. Where other ruins would be washed away, Peruvian ruins just stay nice and ruined.

It has the woolly llama. This Andes camel spits at you. However, we get even with the llama by making him into woolly slippers.

It has a great number of colorful Indians. The Indians don't compliment themselves with Pisco sours. They chew coca leaves. This gives them such a lift that they can sleep at 13,000 feet without electric blankets.

The country was found by Francisco Pizarro. Pizarro learned his trade under Cortez in Mexico.

He put this valuable lesson to work on the Incas who were rolling in gold. In short order, Pizarro was Johnny Salute in Peru. Captain General as far as he could see. And the treasure fleets from Peru were the talk of Spain.

The Spanish then proceeded to colonize the country in their ruinous way—the general idea was to get the loot and get home to Seville.

"Peru is a poor country," said the first guide. "Peru is a rich country," said the guide the second day.

The American status here seems to have improved. (With Khrushchev and Castro backing off, we should do well in South America. Latin America admires the strong man.)

A few months ago, the army revolted and a military junta took over.

On the advice of our Ambassador, America stopped off foreign aid.

The local Americans say this was a big mistake. That the former President was unpopular. The military group is well-liked.

The house walls blossomed with signs, "Yankee Go Home."

However, I don't see any of these today. And if Peru is still mad at us, they are taking a subtle revenge. Those Pisco sour compliments. Watch it!

EASTRIDGE

We can tell that the holiday season is nearly upon us, for news from Eastridge resembles a guest list for the biggest party of the year. It seems as though everyone is either expecting house guests, or plans to be one at the homes of friends and families in various points throughout the state.

The Thanksgiving guests began arriving last week, as Mr. and Mrs. Cecil S. Brubaker welcomed Mrs. Brubaker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Young, on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Young, of Saratoga, Wyo., will be with the Brubakers until after the Thanksgiving holiday.

And several out-of-town guests are expected in Eastridge tomorrow.

Coming from Oklahoma City, Okla., will be Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nunley and their children, Linda, Rick, John, and Pat. Mr. and Mrs. Nunley and family will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Matthews until next weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Pohlman also will be welcoming their Thanksgiving visitor tomorrow. Spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Pohlman and their children, Craig, Dianne, and Eric, will be Miss Rita Walby of Detroit, Mich., who was a classmate of Mr. and Mrs. Pohlman when they were attending school in Michigan.

And the last of the Tuesday arrivals will be Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Evans, of Huron, S.D., who will be visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Evans.

On Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Evans are expecting their daughter, Kathie, who is in nursing school in Omaha. Kathie, as will her grandparents, will remain in Lincoln until Sunday.

A large family dinner is planned for Thanksgiving day at the Evans home, and additional guests will be arriving for that. Coming from Omaha are Mr. and Mrs. Evans' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Evans, and from Fremont will be Mrs. Evans' sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kuchera.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Sonderegger, and their children, Kurt, Ted and Julie, are expecting guests for Thanksgiving day. Their visitors will be Mrs. Sonderegger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Nispel, of Beatrice.

Those going out of town for the holiday include Mr. and Mrs. Dale V. Bruggeman and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald H. Maddox.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruggeman and their children, Ann, Bobby, and Sue, will leave Wednesday for York and a visit with Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. Bruggeman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bruggeman and Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Harry, with whom they will spend the weekend.

Aurora is the destination of Mr. and Mrs. Maddox and their children, Lori and Tommy. The Maddox family will leave early Thanksgiving day for a few days' visit with Mrs. Maddox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Olson.

All is not news of Thanksgiving visits and visitors in Eastridge. There also was a bridge luncheon and a farewell party in the neighborhood last week.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Gordon Pejsar entertained at a bridge luncheon for the neighborhood's monthly bridge players. Seven ladies were on hand for the one o'clock luncheon and afternoon of bridge.

The farewell party was for Mr. and Mrs. Glen Turner who, as we told you last week, will be returning to their former California home. The party was given last Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. James M. Dare who hosted six other couples at a dinner party. Included among the well wishers were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wither, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Max Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. James Owens, and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Shaw.

A Surprise Goodbye Courtesy

Goodbye is not a happy word unless, of course, it is said at a fun party — and a surprise, at that.

That is what happened to Daryl Dillingham who was honored at a surprise farewell courtesy on Saturday evening when Mrs. Edwin Grass and her daughter, Linda, entertained at their home.

The guest list of 25 included members of two Camp Fire Girl groups who, following a dessert supper, spent the evening with games.

The honoree leaves soon with her parents, Maj. and Mrs. E. C. Dillingham and her brothers, Corky and Craig, for their new home in Sacramento, Calif.

Dear Abby

Need Psychiatrist, 2 Couches

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After 19 years of marriage, I finally hit my husband with the first thing I could get my hands on. It was a tea kettle and it caught him on the elbow. He's been using me as a human punching bag (and in front of the children) for years and I finally couldn't take it any more. If I had it coming, I wouldn't complain, but he hits me for things like rolling the car window up when he wants it down. If I do something he doesn't like, instead of telling me he just gives me a crack across the jaw. Was I wrong in throwing the kettle at him? He says a wife is not supposed to hit her husband back.

BEATEN AND BRUISED

DEAR B AND B: A man who would repeatedly give his wife a crack across the jaw is sick. And a woman who would stick around for a repeat performance is sicker than the guy who hits her. Find a psychiatrist with two couches.

DEAR ABBY: I am a bank teller and I have a special depositor who comes to my window regularly with his deposit. My last name is TUCKER, and he has asked me several times if I knew where the expression, "all tuckered out" originated. I have tried to find out and have exhausted my sources. Can you help me?

A TUCKERED-OUT TUCKER

DEAR TUCKERED-OUT: Now, I am also "tuckered out" trying to run down the origin. Does anyone out there know?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were invited to the home of neighbors for dinner. In the midst of the dinner my husband remarked how delicious the "chicken" was. Our host piped up and said it wasn't chicken—it was rabbit. My husband turned green and left the table. Later he came back and offered a rather feeble apology, saying he had a pet rabbit when he was a boy, and had never eaten rabbit before. Our friends were cool to us all evening. When we got home my husband told me never to take him anywhere unless we knew the people well enough to ask what they were serving. I told him rabbit never killed anybody and if he hadn't been told it was rabbit he'd have thought it was chicken. Who was right?

SMALL BATTLE

DEAR SMALL: Many people regard rabbit meat as a real treat — others can't even digest the thought of it. Don't subject your husband to another such experience (if you can help it). It's apparent that his prejudices are stronger than his stomach.

DEAR ABBY: That letter signed "BORN TO LOSE" from the "other woman" made my blood boil. You would think she was doing a noble thing to give up what wasn't hers in the first place. About 99 out of 100 girls who go with married men are "born to lose" because the men have no intention of breaking up their families for these tramps. I don't sit around and cry when I see the danger signals. I just go over to the "other woman's" house and pull her hair out.

BORN TO WIN

By CATHY BELTZ

The National Association of Student Councils was held Nov. 10 at Southeast High School. The purpose of this annual convention is to promote better school relations. Student Councils from all over Nebraska were represented.

Cindy Hardin, a LHS junior, was elected Vice President at the convention. Congratulations, Cindy, for a grand representation of Lincoln High.

"Pygmalion," the Mummer's Club play, will be presented Nov. 30, in the Lincoln High School Auditorium. The play, which features the comedy and excitement of "My Fair Lady," is under the direction of Miss Kay Anderson and student director, Nancy Ryder.

The cast includes Dave Geier, Cindy Hardin, Vic Lacy, Bryan McCarty, Linda Roschewski, Louis Schwartzkopf, Randy Shaner, Vivian Virtanen, Jane Warnsholz, Hannah Wheeler, Gary Wright, and Margaret Young.

Three Lincoln High girls will compete in "Seventeen's" National Miss Date-setter Contest. They are Susie Phelps, Jane Warnsholz and Cathy Beltz.

Girls may vote for their choice for Miss Datesetter Dec. 1, at the Miller and Paine Miss Datesetter fashion show. The winner will be announced at a special Keen-Time dance to be held the same evening at East Hills.

The local winner will compete in the National Contest for a free trip to New York and $500!

A special congratulations goes to Bob Vogel and Lee Wagner for making the All-City football team. Good work, boys.

Happy Thanksgiving!

Why Grow Old?

She's Never Bored

Josephine Lowman

Some years ago a chubby four-year-old girl caused a furor when she climbed up on a piano stool in an Oakland, California, concert hall and proceeded to give a dazzling concert which included works by Mozart, Bach, Schuman and Beethoven. She set the music world back on its heels and made headlines all over the world.

Her name was Ruth Slenczynska. Today, no longer chubby, petite Miss Slenczynska enjoys the status of a virtuoso, still commands headlines wherever she plays and teaches pupils of all ages. I found her interesting not only as a great musician but as a person. She has some interesting ideas which I will pass along to you today.

DISCIPLINARIAN

Much has been written about Ruth's childhood and it is well known that her father was a harsh disciplinarian when it came to the piano. When asked if she is bitter about this she laughed, "Lord, no! He did the best he could to get the results he wanted so that I could have the kind of career he'd never quite been able to make for himself, and I'm sure he believed it would make me happy! The older I get the more sympathetically I see my father — and anyhow, I think bitterness is a waste of time. People can make a career of righteous resentment, but even when it's justified, it doesn't get them anywhere."

Actually, Miss Slenczynska appreciates the advantages of the stern childhood she encountered. She can't imagine being happy as anything but a pianist and she feels that her zest for living today is partly due to the discipline she had as a child. She admitted missing out on a lot of childhood fun, but said, "I think that's one reason why I have a lot of zest for simple pleasures today. I never had a chance to get bored with them as a child."

WASTE OF TIME

It is true that an overindulgent childhood may produce a bored teen-ager, and a bored teen-ager often turns into an unhappy adult. I certainly agree with Ruth that resentment and anger about the past are a terrible waste of energy which we should use to fulfill ourselves. As she put it, "They're backward looking emotions and you're not likely to go forward if you are busy looking back."

If you would like to have my leaflet, "How to Overcome Loneliness and Self-consciousness," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 59 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Nebraska.

The wedding of Miss Priscilla Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Sullivan, and Paul Richardson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Earl Richardson, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Hohlwutle, took place on Saturday morning, Nov. 17, at Blessed Sacrament Church. The service was solemnized at 11 o'clock by Msgr. A. J. Kramer, and Miss Catherine Gillespie, organist, played the wedding music. The vocal soloist was Mrs. Virginia Duxbury.

The matron of honor and bride's only attendant was Mrs. Ed Williams, who wore a daytime frock of silk brocade in winter white. She completed her costume with a whimsy cap of net and accessories in vivid blue, and carried white carnations.

Larry Littrell served Mr. Richardson as best man, and seating the guests were Robert Sullivan and Robert Komaski.

For her wedding gown, the bride chose white bouquet taffeta. Floral appliques of Venice lace, dotted with pearls, framed the portrait neckline of the long-sleeved bodice, and the lace was repeated on the belled skirt, caught into an obi bustle at the back by a cluster of fabric roses. Her silk illusion veil was held by a circlet of jeweled lace, and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Following a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will live at 1711 B. The bride is a former student at the University of Nebraska.

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass 1 4 4 4
6 5 6 6
Opening lead — four of clubs.

This was Board No. 8 in the 320-board match played between Italy and the United States in 1951. America won decisively against Italy that year, and this hand contributed to the victory.

The Italian North, playing the Neapolitan Club system, opened the bidding with a club, thus showing at least 17 points in high cards. (The bid did not necessarily show a club suit.) The American East preempted to four diamonds and South made a normal four spade response.

North bid five spades after West raised diamonds, and East, preparing to defend against an imminent six spade contract, bid six clubs. He wanted a club lead from West in case South bid six spades.

Apparently the Italian South thought East's club bid showed a genuine suit and he ventured six spades. Everybody passed, but the contract was an unhappy one. South went down three.

It does seem that South should have doubled six clubs and then trusted his partner to take the appropriate action if the opponents ran to six diamonds.

At the second table, the bidding started the same way but ended differently. It went:

West North East South
Pass 1 4 4 4
Pass Pass 5 6
Pass Dble.

The first round of bidding was the same, but the Italian West did not act over four spades when it was bid. East then decided to sacrifice with five diamonds, and this got doubled by the American North when the bid came around to him. East went down two — 300 points — giving the United States team a gain of 450 points on the deal.

Whether the sacrifice at the second table was worthwhile is in doubt, since the question of how South would have done at four spades

British Elections This Week A Test

By PETER KNOX
London (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's conservative government faces 5 by-elections this week that will show if it has halted a slide in its popularity.
All 5 polls will take place Thursday. Four of them are in English country districts, Chippenham, Central Norfolk, South Dorset and South Northants, and the 5th in the Glasgow suburb of Woodside. The seats are all presently held by conservatives.

In the Scottish district there is heavy unemployment which means that the government's economic policy is under heavy fire. In the English seats an important percentage of farmers is involved, bringing Britain's Common Market venture to the fore, although the general interest on this issue has been less intense than expected.

Suspicious

The farm community is suspicious of the government's bid to take this country into the Common Market because this will mean an entirely new agricultural policy and end the present system of farm subsidies.

The pre-poll betting is that the Conservatives will lose the Scottish seat to Labor but retain the other 4, although perhaps with reduced majorities.

These are the first electoral tests since a series of 12 by-elections between March and July in which the Conservatives lost on average about 20% of the votes obtained in the general elections of October, 1959. One seat, Orpington, was lost to the Liberals.

Hope Swing Halted

The Conservatives are hopeful that the big swing towards the Liberals shown in the earlier polls has now been halted. They have been campaigning heavily to win back voters.

Conservative propagandists believe the government's forthright policy advocating British entry into the Common Market is popular with most voters, and that in the final analysis even farmers won't go against them because, in most cases, this would mean voting Labor.

The Liberals urge Common Market entry, too, and apart from one constituency, Dorset South, where an independent Conservative is running on an anti-Common Market ticket, the "anti-Common Market" are all Labor men.

The Conservatives are also hopeful that the government's campaigns on housing, education, and a new deal for housewives (insistence on accurate weights and measures in packaging of household goods and food) together with a general easing of economic restrictions will bring the voters back to them.

This is a general view, looking north, of the Sheldon Station area. In the foreground is the Exhibit Building, with a group of visitors leaving for the parking lot to the south. Behind the Exhibit Building—actually some 200 yards to the north—is the Nuclear Reactor wing of the station. The tall structure at the left is the fuel loading building. In the far background (center left) are the water cooling towers for the conventional steam power facility.

In the Exhibit Building, visitors first see a complete cut-away scale model of the entire Sheldon Station, showing both the nuclear and conventional facilities. Other exhibits are also viewed here.

Visitors are able to see the huge reactor bay area through large plate glass windows. From here, they go to the second floor for a view of the large control room filled with dials and flashing panels, and the turbine-generator that will produce 75,000 net kilowatts of electric power.

Nebraska's New Source of Electricity Now Ready for Your "Inspection"

The Hallam Nuclear Power Facility, part of Consumers Public Power District's Sheldon Station, is now ready for visitors.

An Exhibit Building will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 1:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Sundays. Organized tours of the Facility will be conducted daily at 10:00 a.m. (except Sundays), 2:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m.

Only adults and students in the 7th grade and above may visit the plant. Organized groups of 10 or more may make advance reservations. Individuals or groups of less than 10 may visit the Exhibit Building at any time during the open hours; such visitors will be combined with larger groups for the conducted tours of the plant.

Full information may be obtained by writing or calling Tour Coordinator, CPPD, Box 88 (phone 787-2555), Hallam.

Workers Vote For Strike At Lockheed

Burbank, Calif. (P)—Union workers in a mass meeting Sunday authorized a strike at Lockheed Aircraft Co.'s huge missile plant here.

The International Association of Machinists said the vote was 3 to 1 in favor of a strike. A spokesman refused to release exact figures on the vote, saying "they're never released."

Thomas McNett, president of District 727 of the union, said the negotiating committee will meet Monday to set a strike date.

Lockheed and IAM have disputed over the company's refusal to allow its workers to vote on the issue of a union shop, which would require all employees to join the union.

A board appointed by President Kennedy recommended such a vote for the whole aerospace industry. Other California firms—Convair, Ryan Aeronautical and North American Aviation—accepted the recommendation, but employees of all 3 rejected the union shop. A two-thirds majority was required.

A union spokesman said

DULUTH'S CELEBATED MONGOOSE ATTRACTS 'THOUSANDS'

Duluth, Minn. (P)—A crowd estimated at "literally thousands" by caretaker Lloyd Hackl flooded the Duluth Zoo grounds Sunday to get a glimpse of the most famous resident the zoo ever had—a mongoose.

The animal from India has stirred a controversy over whether he should be allowed to remain in this country. A sailor visiting the port of Duluth presented him to the city zoo, but the law prohibits keeping mongooses in this country because of prolific reproduction.

Federal health officials say he must go, but the city is fighting to keep the critter. Numerous persons elsewhere have protested with cries of "save the mongoose."

Hackl said he has had no contact from any federal officials over the mongoose. He also reported no special plans are being made for display of the animal if the zoo is permitted to keep it.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service informed the city that a 1909 law prohibits importation of mongooses. City Attorney Harry Weinberg advised zoo officials to plot a delaying action when federal officials arrive to execute the animal.

Duluth officials offered to provide surgery for the bachelor beast to insure against any reproduction, should a lady mongoose ever show up here.

Huskers Play For Title Share, Bowl Bid Saturday

By DON BRYANT
Star Sports Editor

Long accustomed to dreaming of big things, Nebraska ventures into solid reality this week — a life-size opportunity to at least share in the Big 8 championship and gain a bowl bid as a full-fledged member of the gridiron elite corps.

Oklahoma, once again giving solid evidence that the Sooners have returned en masse, will be the opponent — and a better windup match would be hard to imagine.

Nebraska hasn't played for the title since 1954 when they met Oklahoma at Norman — and lost by the horrendous count of 55-7. The Huskers then backed into the Orange Bowl as an unwelcome guest with a sub-par record, and were scuttled by Duke.

Sooners Will Be Favored

It is unlikely that the Sooners will overpower Nebraska this week by the same humiliating margin, even though they'll be favored. Win or lose, the Cornhuskers won't have to hang their heads about their 1962 performance, either.

They're now 8-1—which matches the famous Rose Bowl team's record — and can finish no worse than 8-2, so football respectability has returned to the NU scene.

But come what may, the important issue this week is simple: Coach Bob Devaney and his assistants have guided a hard-working and talented Husker crew to the showdown — a chance to play for a piece of the crown, a fete so unexpected that the 1962 Huskers rate as the comebackers of the year and Devaney is a worthy candidate for "Coach of the Year" honors.

Rare Opportunity For Huskers

It's a rare opportunity for the Cornhuskers, who have cherished such ambitions for years.

Most Oklahomans aren't giving Nebraska a chance to stop their Big Red, but two exceptions are Bud Wilkinson and Gomer Jones.

"I told our kids before the game (with Missouri, won 13-0 by the Sooners) that Nebraska was a better team than Missouri, and they thought so, too," Bud said. "We looked at movies of Nebraska's game with Missouri, and with the exception of a few plays, Nebraska definitely looked stronger — why, they held Missouri to only 28 yards in the second half."

Wilkinson, of course, did not mean he wouldn't let his Sooners play against Nebraska. But he was having no part of the runaway talk being passed around by OU boosters, even though the Sooners are 5-0 in the Big 8 and have outscored 4 opponents 163-0 since edging Kansas 13-0.

"It should be a great game," Bud said. "Nebraska has the best personnel in the league and Bob Devaney is a fine coach. We're not great, but we're improving and may get there — it ought to be a tremendous game."

Bruising Clash In Line

Jones, Bud's line coach and former NU aide, was licking his chops in anticipation of a bruising clash up front.

"I've got to say all our senior interior linemen played well against Missouri, and that fellows like Wayne Lee and Leon Cross are pretty good linemen," Gomer said. "But that Nebraska line is a fine outfit — you can't name outstanding linemen without mentioning that Bob Brown. I liked him last year and he's a lot better now."

Here are the facts about the upcoming showdown:

By winning the Huskers can guarantee a slice of the title, either with Oklahoma (which also must play Oklahoma State) or Missouri (which ends this week with Kansas).

Huskers Could Win It All

If Oklahoma should lose to Nebraska and Oklahoma State, while Missouri loses to Kansas, the Huskers could win it all.

Nebraska can be either 9-1 overall and 6-1 in the loop, or 8-2 and 5-2; Oklahoma can be either 8-2, 7-3 or 6-4 overall, and 7-0, 6-1 or 5-2 in the loop; Missouri can be either 8-1-1 or 7-2-1 overall, and 6-1 or 5-2 in the conference.

Thus, NU can wind up anywhere from first to 3rd.

All of which means the Big 8 race is far from settled.

There's the matter of bowl bids, too. Most observers are betting on Oklahoma to land the Orange Bowl berth, unless Nebraska unseats the Sooners. And Alabama seems the best bet as an opponent.

Alabama had scouts at the Oklahoma-Missouri game and a Miami insider reported the Crimson Tide was all signed before losing to Georgia Tech.

"That loss won't hurt," he said. "We can write that off as a bad day."

NU Could Still Get Bid

If the Huskers don't get the Orange Bowl spot, they could still nab a post-season date with a win over the Sooners. The Gator, Liberty, Bluebonnet and Gotham are possibilities.

Anyway you cut it Nov. 24 will be a crucial day in the Big 8 football war, with most of the issue settled between Nebraska and Oklahoma and the remainder decided between Missouri and Kansas.

In other action last week Iowa State slammed Kansas State 28-14, Kansas recovered to smack California, 33-21, and Texas Tech clipped Colorado, 21-12.

This week the also-rans will wind up outside the loop, while Oklahoma State tackles winless Kansas State, Colorado hosts Air Force and Iowa State entertains potent Ohio University.

Green Bay Struggles To 10th Straight Win

WINNING RUN . . . Tom Moore races for winning TD against Colts as Ordell Braase gives pursuit.

Adderley Returns Kickoff 103 Yards

. . . COLTS FALL, 17-13

Green Bay, Wis. (AP) — The undefeated Green Bay Packers struggled to their 10th straight victory in defense of the National Football League championship by edging the stubborn Baltimore Colts 17-13 Sunday with the help of a 103-yard kickoff return by Herb Adderley and two brilliant defense stands.

The Packers pulled ahead on a 23-yard scoring dash by Tom Moore on the 3rd play of the 4th period and then made a brilliant goal line stand to protect their slender margin with 3 minutes remaining.

Outplayed most of the route, Green Bay had trouble penetrating the tough Baltimore defense. However, the Packers' tremendous defenders withstood an aerial blitz by Johnny Unitas and hung on to the end as the NFL champions posted their 18th straight triumph, including exhibitions, since the 1916 campaign.

Second Stand

The Packers, who had held off 4 Baltimore plays from the Green Bay one in the second period, staged their second fine stand after the Colts had moved to a first down 7 yards from pay dirt and the minutes ticked away.

Lenny Moore picked up 5 yards to the two before Mark Smolinski made a yard and was pushed back the same distance on two cracks at the line. Unitas then triggered a pass intended for Jimmy Orr, but Adderley raced off and knocked down the ball in the end zone to halt the Colts' final threat.

Dick Bielski booted a 42-yard field goal for a 3-0 Baltimore lead in the first period, but the Packers bounced right back as Adderley took the ensuing kickoff 3 yards deep in his end zone and raced all the way for a touchdown. Adderley sprinted straight up the middle and out to his right as Tom Moore blocked out the last Colt defender.

Adderley Intercepts

Late in the opening quarter Adderley picked off a Unitas pass and returned 21 yards to the Baltimore 17. On the 4th play, Jerry Kramer booted a 24-yard field goal.

The Colts tied the count 10-10 with 54 seconds left in the half as Unitas lobbed a 34-yard overhead shot to Orr, who took the ball on the run in the end zone.

Bielski kicked an 18-yard field goal midway through the 3rd period before the Packers' high powered offense got rolling.

The victory enabled the Packers to retain their two-game lead over the Detroit Lions who defeated the Minnesota Vikings 17-6, while the Colts were knocked out of the Western Division race with a 5-5 record. The Packers meet the Lions in Detroit Thanksgiving Day.

Michaels' FG Ups Steelers

Pittsburgh (AP)—Lou Michaels kicked a 24-yard field goal, his 3rd of the game, with 13 seconds left Sunday to pull out a 23-17 victory for the Pittsburgh Steelers over the Washington Redskins in a National Football League game.

Michaels, the NFL's top field goal kicker, ran his total for the season to 17, surpassing the club record of 15 he set last year.

Quarterback Ed Brown came off the bench in the final quarter after Bobby Layne was injured and passed for two touchdowns to put the Steelers within range for the game-winning kick.

The victory before a crowd of 21,231 in chilly weather gave the Steelers a 6-4 record in the Eastern Conference. They're in 3rd place.

Second-place Washington, with a record of 5-3-2, next weekend plays division leader New York, which Sunday beat Philadelphia, 19-14.

Pittsburgh's first touchdown in the final period came on a 20-yard toss from Brown to Red Mack. Brown then hit Buddy Dial with a 9-yard scoring heave.

Michaels kicked a 37-yard field goal in the first quarter, and another one for 19 yards in the second period. He also

Morrall Comes Off Bench To Lead Detroit Win, 17-6

. . . LIONS' TITLE HOPES STILL ALIVE

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP) — Quarterback Earl Morrall came off the bench the second half to pump life into Detroit's listless offense and direct the Lions to a 17-6 National Football League victory over Minnesota Sunday.

The Lions' 8th triumph in 10 games kept alive Detroit's hopes of overtaking Green Bay in the Western Conference. The division's two leaders meet Thursday. It was Minnesota's 8th defeat in 10 outings.

Morrall fired two short-yardage touchdown passes to end Jim Gibbons in the 3rd quarter to reach a 6-3 Minnesota lead.

Gibbons' receptions gave him 176 for an all-time career record, eclipsing the old mark of 174 by Leon Hart.

Before Morrall's appearance, the Lions had managed only 11 yards rushing under the direction of Milt Plum the first half. Plum hit 8 of 17 passes the first half for 108 yards, but couldn't get Detroit across the goal.

The first half was a virtual defensive standoff with the Vikings claiming a 6-3 edge at intermission on a pair of field goals from the 16 and 14 yard lines by Jim Christopherson.

Plum booted a 32-yard fielder for the Lions after regular kicker Wayne Walker had missed twice from the 26.

It didn't take the Lions long to break it open after half-time. On the 3rd play after the kickoff, Morrall handed off to Tom Watkins, who slid off right tackle, shook off a tackler at the line of scrimmage and broke into the open.

Watkins was finally hauled down from behind by Jim Marshall at the Viking 5 after a 60-yard sprint. On the next play, Morrall hit Gibbons up the middle for the game's first touchdown.

The next time Detroit got the ball, the Lions swept 76 yards in 11 plays for the clincher with 5:25 left in the 3rd period. Morrall again hit Gibbons up the middle from the 2 for the score.

Chandler Kicks New York To Win

New York (AP) — Don Chandler, converted from a punter to a field goal kicker during the training season, kicked 4 field goals Sunday to give the New York Giants a 19-14 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles in the mud, rain and snow.

Chandler kicked from the 28 in the wild 24-point first period, the 20 in the second, the 37 in the 3rd and the 26 in the 4th as the Giants overcame stubborn Eagle defenses.

Alex Webster, the veteran fullback, pounded through the mud and goo for an 8-yard touchdown run in the first period and piled up valuable clock-eating yardage all through the dull, gray afternoon.

Y. A. Tittle, who had thrown 13 touchdown passes in the last 3 games and 22 during the season, didn't get any with the slippery ball. Sonny Jurgensen, the Eagles' quarterback, did hit speedy Tommy McDonald with a 34-yard scoring pass in the first period after moving the club down field, helped by a 34-yard pass to Theron Sapp.

Tom Brown of the Eagles turned in the most spectacular run with a 61-yard romp up the sidelines when Jurgensen faked a pass and handed off to him on a reverse in the waning minutes of the first period.

The Giants trailed 14-10 at the end of the first period. Despite Chandler's second field goal, the Eagles were still out front 14-13 at the half. Chandler's 3rd goal at 10 minutes, 17 seconds of the 3rd put the Eastern Conference leaders out front to stay 16-14.

The 4th field goal, breaking the club record and falling one short of the National Football League mark, came at 1:42 of the final period. Chandler also missed one field goal attempt from the 43 in the first period.

The 5th straight sellout crowd was announced at 62, 705, but some of the wiser ticket buyers must have stayed home. There were gaps in the stands. It was the Giants 5th straight victory and their 8th in 10 starts.

At the very end, the Giants had the ball on the Eagles' 3 when King Hill, back to pass, was hit and fumbled. Jim Katcavage recovered for New York. Tittle ran one play, but the Giants couldn't get in another one as time ran out.

Webster carried 23 times for 107 yards, more than the Giants' running game had produced in any previous outing.

Texans Near West Division AFL Title With 24-3 Victory

Denver (AP) — The Dallas Texans neared the American Football League's Western Division title Sunday as Lenny Dawson threw 3 touchdown passes in a snow-spattered 24-3 romp over the chilled Denver Broncos before 23,523.

Dawson exploited a soft spot down the middle and fired scoring aeries of 92 and 47 yards in a 3-minute span of the 4th quarter to lock up Dallas' 8th victory in 10 starts.

The Texans were leading 7-3 and had their backs to the wall following an out-of-bounds punt by Denver's Jim Fraser. On 3rd down, Dawson caught the Denver defense bunched at the line of scrimmage and flipped a short pass over center to Tommy Brooker, who lumbered 92 yards for the score.

Minutes later, the Dallas quarterback repeated with Fred Arbanas on the receiving end and Denver's title hopes were dashed.

The Broncos, now with a 7-4 record and 3 games remaining, led the Texans through the first 27 minutes following Gene Mingo's 22nd field goal of the campaign.

But the division leaders stormed back with a 92-yard drive capped by Dawson's 26-yard pass to Chris Burford with less than two minutes left in the half. Dawson now has 24 TD passes in 10 games.

Russian Players Twist; Breakfast Served Late

Mount Pleasant, Iowa (UPI) — It's difficult to dance the twist late and eat breakfast early, a group of touring Russian basketball players discovered Sunday.

For the first time since their arrival in this country nearly two weeks ago, the usually punctual basketball players were late arriving for breakfast.

The reason was that the men and women of the squad cut loose for the first time since they left their homeland — and it took a roomful of Iowa Wesleyan College students, a live band and twist rhythm to do it.

the dance floor after a few brief introductory speeches and asked Soviet guard Nina Pozanskaya, the mother of two children, to join him in the twist.

All Dancing

The 30-year-old, 5-7 guard from Leningrad accepted, and in a few minutes nearly all of the Russian athletes were dancing, spurred on by the Wesleyan students.

After a few moments of careful watching, even Ravela Salimova, the Soviet's 6-6 women's team center, joined in, dancing with a Wesleyan student who looked a foot shorter than his partner.

Officials of the Amateur Athletic Union, who are underwriting the State Department sponsored tour, said that this was the first time the Soviet players had "really let their hair down and had some fun with Americans."

Relaxation 'Welcome'

A Soviet spokesman said "We are glad to be among you young people and spend this nice evening with you." He added that the relaxation was "welcome," especially after "their tiring day of travel" from Sioux Falls, S. Dak.

Stepan Spandarian, senior trainer for the Soviet men, was asked for his reaction. He said he thought the party was "good," but admitted "I don't quite understand the dance."

It's hard to say exactly how relaxing the dance was because many of the Russian players stayed until it ended at midnight. This wrecked the scheduled 9 a.m. breakfast, but by about 9:45 a.m., most of the players had assembled.

For a while it looked as if the Soviets had passed up the annual "Turkey Trot" at the college in favor of seeing John Wayne in the movie "Hatari," showing at the local theater.

—BLOCKED PAT DECIDES— Last-Minute Kick Gives Chicago Win

Dallas, Tex. (AP) — Roger Leclerc kicked a 12-yard field goal with 31 seconds left Sunday and the Chicago Bears won a come-from-behind 34-33 victory over the Dallas Cowboys in the National Football League.

Joe Fortunato blocked Sam Baker's try for point after the first Dallas touchdown in the second period and that was the eventual difference.

Billy Wade passed for 47 yards, two touchdowns and scored a touchdown himself in leading the Bears to victory before a chilled crowd that huddled in 44-degree temperatures.

Wade also contributed to all the other Chicago scores with his deadly passing although given a terrific rush by the Cowboy linebackers.

Don Meredith had a good passing day for Dallas. He pitched for 162 yards and 3 touchdowns.

The game was a standoff in a battle of field goals with Baker booting two for Dallas and Leclerc the same for Chicago.

The game was close all the way until Dallas pulled to a 9-point bulge in the fourth period. That didn't stand long, however.

The teams struggled to a scoreless first quarter and Dallas led only 13-10 at the end of two periods.

Dallas thought it had the game won late in the 4th period when Amos Bullocks broke through the line and sprinted 73 yards to a touchdown — a club record.

That had Dallas ahead by 9 points. But Wade came back to pass the Bears on a 77-yard touchdown drive and then Leclerc did his heroics with time running out as a Chicago surge bogged down on the Dallas 4-yard line.

Bills Stop Raiders On Kemp Pass

Oakland, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Jack Kemp, making his first appearance for Buffalo, threw a 3rd period touchdown pass to give the Bills a 10-6 triumph over the winless Oakland Raiders before 11,700 Sunday.

Kemp, picked up by the Bills on waivers from San Diego a month ago, connected with former Raider Wayne Crow on a 16-yard scorer with 1 minute 40 seconds left in the 3rd period.

The touchdown overcame a 6-3 Oakland edge built on field goals of 49 and 36 yards by 43-year-old Ben Agajanian.

Oakland's defense contained the strong Bill running game throughout the contest, but gave way when Kemp, recovered from an injured finger, drove the Bills 33 yards for the touchdown after Oakland lost the ball on a punt fumble.

Oakland, now winless in its past 16 league games, 10 of them this season, took a 3-0 lead on Agajanian's 49-yarder at the end of the first period.

Cookie Gilchrist evened the count with a 21-yard field goal late in the first half. Agajanian, who missed two short field goals in his Raider debut last week, regained the lead for Oakland on his 36-yarder near the end of the 3rd quarter.

Buffalo, with Warren Rabb at quarterback, was forced to punt on the next series but Bob Garner fumbled a fair catch and Monte Crockett recovered for Buffalo on Oakland's 33.

A running play and Kemp's 13-yard pass to Ernie Warlick got Buffalo to the 16 and then Kemp found Crow for the clincher.

49ers Drop Rams To End Loss String

Los Angeles (AP) — Quarterback John Brodie threw two touchdowns passes and guided San Francisco on 3 long-range scoring drives Sunday to defeat the Los Angeles Rams 24-17 and snap a 4-game losing streak by the 49ers.

The outcome of the National Football League contest, played before 42,554 under bright skies in Memorial Coliseum, left the Rams in the cellar of the Western Conference with a 1-9 record and the 49ers with a 4-6 standing.

The Rams opened the scoring with a 43-yard field goal by Danny Villanueva and finally got two touchdowns in the last quarter—their first in 3 games and 11 quarters of football.

The first of the two touchdowns came on a 27-yard pass from Zeke Bratkowski to Jim Phillips, who caught the ball in the air after 49er Elbert Kimbrough deflected the throw.

San Francisco went ahead in the second quarter when Brodie passed 3 yards to Bill Kilmer, capping a 71-yard drive enhanced by a 35-yard pass from Brodie to Bernie Casey.

Tommy Davis booted a 38-yard field goal in the 3rd period, a play set up by a 48-yard pass from Brodie to Monty Stickles.

The San Francisco margin widened later in the 3rd when the 49ers again drove 79 yards in 6 plays; Kilmer scoring from the 3. A 43-yard pass from Brodie to Stickles set this one up.

Oakland's defense contained the strong Bill running game throughout the contest, but gave way when Kemp, recovered from an injured finger, drove the Bills 33 yards for the touchdown after Oakland lost the ball on a punt fumble.

Brown Scores Four In Cleveland Win

... CARDINALS LOSE, 38-14

Cleveland (AP) — Fullback Jim Brown scored 4 touchdowns and quarterback Frank Ryan enjoyed his greatest passing day as the Cleveland Browns defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 38-14 Sunday.

Brown picked up 85 yards in 19 runs, and Ryan completed 13 of 21 passes for 241 yards.

The Browns outgained the hapless Cardinals by only two yards but built up their 24-point margin as the St. Louis club lost the ball twice on the two-yard line after long drives.

The victory moved the Browns to a 5-4-1 record in the National Football League's Eastern Conference as St. Louis dropped to 2-7-1.

Gary Collins, Cleveland punter who has seen little active service this year, was Ryan's big target as he caught 6 passes for 88 yards and one touchdown. Several of his catches were sensational. He played only a portion of the game, replacing Ray Renfro, who suffered a first period eye injury.

The Browns broke away to a 24-0 lead on Collin's touchdown, a pair by Brown and Lou Groza's 34-yard field goal before the Cardinals scored in the wild 4th period. Prentice Gautt climaxed a 71-yard, 12-play drive with a 6-inch scoring plunge, and later Mal Hammack scored on a 23-yard run.

Brown, who had scored on runs of 3 and 4 yards in the 3rd period, sandwiched a 16-yard touchdown between the scores by Gautt and Hammack, and then wound up the game with a 7-yard scoring sprint.

Ryan Passes

With Ryan passing effectively, the Browns moved for touchdowns in 4 long drives. One went 77 yards in 6 plays, and the others 70 in 4, 66 in 6 and 52 in 6. The other touchdown was a short drive. After Galen Fiss had intercepted a Sam Etcheverry pass.

Houston Takes 1st In East

Houston, Tex. (AP) — George Blanda threw two touchdown passes Sunday as the Houston Oilers took over the American Football League's Eastern Division lead from the Boston Patriots by defeating the Patriots 21-17 in a tense game before a crowd of 35,250.

Boston had entered the game with a one-half game lead and the defeat was double tough in that Babe Parilli, Patriot star who ranked No. 2 among AFL passers, received a broken collarbone early in the second period.

A 28-yard pass from Parilli to Jim Colclough had given Boston an early 7-0 lead. Blanda struck quickly, however, with passes of 25 and 42 yards to Charlie Hennigan and Bob McLeod to give the Oilers a 14-7 edge seconds before a jarring tackle by Bill Herchman sent Parilli to the sidelines for the remainder of the season.

Boston never recovered but fists and elbows flew at times and several decisions by officials brought loud protests from players and fans as the teams battled heatedly the last 3 periods.

A 36-yard field goal by Gino Cappelletti cut the Houston lead to 14-10 before the half but the Oilers opened the 3rd period with an 80-yard surge Charlie Tolar ended by carrying over from the 1 with what proved to be the winning touchdown.

Tom Yewic, former Michigan State star, took over for Parilli and hit Ron Burton with a 69-yard 3rd period touchdown that put the Patriots in contention during the scoreless but tense 4th quarter.

Truckers Support Teamsters In Vote

Philadelphia (UPI) — Four Teamsters union locals retained the right to represent 8,000 truck drivers and helpers in 4 eastern states Sunday night by defeating a dissident group in a representative election.

The National Labor Relations Board, which supervised a 4-day election, announced that by an official vote of 3,870 to 3,274 the regular organizations won a long violence-marked dispute with the rebel group known as the Voice of Teamsters.

Negotiations For Cuban Invaders' Release Continue

New York (UPI) — Negotiations for the release of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners have been kept open despite the crisis between the U. S. and Premier Fidel Castro's communist government, it was announced Sunday.

James B. Donovan, attorney for the Cuban Family Committee for the Liberation of Prisoners of War, made the statement in announcing that 3 top officials of the family committee would fly here from Havana for conferences with him on the negotiations.

He identified them as Mrs. Berta Barreto, chief liaison representative to the Castro government, her husband, Jesus, and Alvaro Sanchez Jr., national chairman of the committee.

The rebel group had indicated that if it won it would pull away from the Teamsters and form an independent union under the AFL-CIO. The balloting was seen as a major test for Teamsters President James Hoffa.

Katherine Neel, a senior field examiner for the NLRB, said each side has 5 days to appeal the result of the election or its conduct.

The election among locals 107 and 470 in Philadelphia; 331 in Atlantic City, N.J., and 312 with headquarters in Chester, Pa., began Thursday at polling places here. Balloting for truckers in Atlantic City and Pennsylvania, N.J.; New Castle, Del., and Salisbury, Md. took place Friday and Saturday.

The voting was among 8,200 union members who are employees of firms represented by Motor Transport Labor Relations, an employers' bargaining unit.

The rebel group started out as a protest against the Local 107 administration under the direction of Raymond Cohen, secretary-treasurer and the long dispute was marked by many incidents of violence between the two factions. A number of policemen were stationed at the office building housing the NLRB where the ballots were counted Sunday.

The latest incident of violence occurred here early Sunday when two autos were damaged. A car carrying a sign supporting the regular Teamsters organization was set afire and was a total loss. The windows of a parked auto with a voice sign were found smashed and the tires slashed.

THREE INJURED BY SANTA'S SLEIGH

Gloria Ward, 22, of North Little Rock, Ark., lies injured in a downtown Little Rock parking lot after being struck by a helicopter blown into a crowd of about 550 people as it brought Santa Claus to town Sunday. Miss Ward, 3-year-old Mary Jones of Prescott and Mrs. Lillie Rushing, 65, of Little Rock all were slightly injured.

Bandit Holds Illinois Family, Receives Ransom

Assumption, Ill. (UPI) — A bandit held a young bank cashier and his family hostage at the point of a straight edge razor for 7 harrowing hours Saturday night and freed the cashier long enough to get between $5,000 and $10,000 ransom.

Carl Corzine, 30, cashier of the family-owned First National Bank of Assumption; his wife, Marilyn, 28, and tempted to determine the exact amount of the loot Sunday.

"It will be within the range of $5,000 to $10,000," the elder Corzine said.

Authorities said the robber, described as about 35 years old and wearing brown pants tucked into boots, invaded the younger Corzine's home, on the outskirts of this central Illinois community, about 4:30. No one was home at the time.

Authorities said he hid in a bathroom until Corzine came home from the office and changed clothes. Then, authorities said, he stepped in front of Corzine, feigned a gun, tied and gagged him, and left him bound in an upstairs room.

When Mrs. Corzine and their son arrived home from shopping, FBI agents said, the bandit grabbed her by the hair and pulled a razor which he held to her throat.

Then, police said, the assailant forced Corzine to get

Top-Ranking Pianist Kuerti Takes University By Storm

By RUTH ARDIS

A top-ranking young pianist, Anton Kuerti, took the Student Union by storm when he appeared with the University of Nebraska Symphony Orchestra Sunday night.

Thunderous applause followed his performance of the G Major Concerto by Beethoven. His interpretation brought out both the romantic and classical elements of the concerto.

Kuerti displayed the superb musicianship and technical facility which had won him one of the highest musical honors—the Levintritt Award—in 1957.

Fine Balance

Conductor Emanuel Wishnow maintained a fine balance between orchestra and soloist.

The orchestral parts of this concerto as well as the other Beethoven concertos are not mere accompaniments but are difficult and demand a fine rapport with the soloist.

Wishnow had chosen a program which gave admirable opportunity to display the performing abilities of each section and many individuals as soloists, as well as the orchestra as a whole.

Eloquent, Stimulating

The impressionistic, capricious "White Peacock" by Griffes was eloquent, even to the smallest details. The varied moods of Gershwin's "An American in Paris" stimulated the audience as well as the performers.

Two nationalistic works by Dvorak—"In Der Natur" and Slavonic Dance No. 15—provided interesting contrast and variety to the program which was sponsored jointly by the Nebraska Union and the NU department of music.

The fine performance is a tribute to Wishnow's craftsmanship as a conductor and to the fine group of young musicians who comprise the orchestra.

'Earth Needs Talking Moon Trio'

Only 3 communications satellites will be needed to transmit messages between any two spots on earth, a space scientist told a state-wide meeting of school administrators in Lincoln Sunday night.

The occasion was a banquet opening the Joint Conference of the Nebraska Association of School Administrators and the department of school administration, Teachers College, University of Nebraska.

Guest speaker Dr. Everett T. Wilmers, satellite systems studies director for Aerospace Corp. of Los Angeles, told more than 150 persons present:

"Far-Out Peculiarity"
"You can talk about orbits and satellites out to 22,000 miles from the earth. At 22,000 miles, you have a very peculiar property."
"The satellite at that distance travels around the earth at the exact same rate at which the earth rotates. Therefore, it remains in the same position relative to the earth at all times."

Dr. Wilmers explained that one city would direct its transmitter-receiver towards the satellite to broadcast the message while a city in another part of the world, with its transmitter-receiver also directed toward the satellite, would receive almost instantaneously.

Bold, Curious
"There are two characteristics with which we have to approach this whole civilization which we now have—boldness and curiosity," he added.

"We can't afford to be too cowardly about this thing either because at times we will have to jump in with both feet."

The first general session is slated for 9:30 a.m. Monday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, highlighted by an address on "Improving Professional Competence of Administrators," by Dr. J. C. Wright, secretary of the Committee for the Advancement of School Administration, Washington, D.C.

The meet ends Tuesday night.

Republican Will Take Seat Held by Chavez

Santa Fe, N.M. (AP) — The death of Sen. Dennis Chavez, D-N.M., provides New Mexico's Republican Gov. Edwin L. Mechem the opportunity to appoint the Senator's successor.

Sen. Chavez died in Georgetown University hospital in Washington, D.C., Sunday.

Gov. Mechem, who leaves office Jan. 1 following his defeat in the Nov. 6 general election by Democrat Jack M. Campbell, said Sunday he would not discuss the matter of a possible successor to Chavez until a proper time has elapsed.

Until 1964 Under New Mexico law, the governor would appoint a successor to serve until the next general election in 1964. Chavez would have been up for reelection at that time.

Indications are Mechem will appoint a Republican — the first Republican Senator from New Mexico in a generation.

There was a move in the 1961 legislature to take the power of senatorial vacancy appointment away from the governor's office. Gov. Mechem vetoed such a bill and a move to pass the measure over his veto was unsuccessful.

Mechem, himself, is a prime prospect for the vacancy, but state law provides separate procedure for an incumbent governor to take the senatorial post. One legal expert here gave an off-hand opinion that a governor would have to resign, be succeeded by the lieutenant governor, who, in turn, would appoint the governor to the Senate.

Report Rift

There have been reports that a rift has developed between Mechem and Lt. Gov. Tom Bolack, also a republican, over the matter of senatorial appointment.

There is also speculation here that Dr. Jack C. Redman of Albuquerque, the Republican who ran a close race against Rep. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., in the Nov. 6 election, may receive strong consideration for Chavez's Senate seat. Redman, although losing to Montoya, led the Republican ticket in New Mexico.

Other Republican leaders who have been mentioned as possible senatorial material are Robert O. Anderson, Rosewell oil man and business leader who has been a major contributor to the GOP in the state, and Holm Bursum of Socorro, one of Mechem's close advisers. Both are close personal friends of the governor.

TWO CHILDREN DIE: FAILED TO FOLLOW MOM

Los Angeles (AP) — Two children suffocated in a burning apartment early Sunday when they failed to follow their mother to safety.

Mrs. Mattei Felton, 26, told firemen she awoke to find her apartment filled with smoke.

She ran into a bedroom occupied by Donald, 4, and Michele, 3, and saw Donald striking matches and the curtain in flames.

After futilely trying to beat out the fire with a rug, she picked up Eugene, 3 months, and told her other 4 children, including Deborah, 7, and Manuel, 5, to follow her out of the building.

Outside, she discovered that Donald and Michele had not followed. The heat was so intense she could not go back for them.

Negroes Face Extradition in Conn. Crimes

Augusta, Ga. (UPI) — An extradition hearing may be held here Monday for a Negro handyman and his common law wife who are wanted in Connecticut in connection with the slaying of a society matron and the kidnap-rape of her 14-year-old daughter.

Harlis Miller, 31, and his common law wife Rosalie are being held in the Richmond county jail here awaiting the arrival of Connecticut authorities. Officials say that unless they waive extradition, a hearing will be needed.

Miller, charged with the Nov. 12 slaying of Mrs. Isabel Sillan, 50, in Westport, Conn., and the kidnap-rape of her teenage daughter has indicated he will waive extradition, officials said. There was no word on whether Rosalie, wanted as an accessory to the kidnap-rape, had made a similar indication.

The two Negroes were arrested Friday by FBI agents at the Soperton, Ga., home of Miller's mother. He was found hiding in a pickup truck parked beside the house and Rosalie was standing beside the vehicle at the time. Officials said Miller has a legal wife in Soperton.

FIRE DAMAGES GROCERY

Fire Sunday damaged Rohrbaugh's IGA Park-N-Save Grocery at 140 No. 48th. Starting in a pile of rubbish behind the store, the flames spread to the walls and ceiling. Smoke spread through the grocery and two adjoining businesses, Joann's Beauty Shop and Four Star Drug. Firemen said damage to each establishment was more than $150. Damage to the beauty shop and drugstore was caused mostly by smoke.

American Virtuoso Charles Treger Wins Wieniawski Violin Competition

Warsaw, Poland (AP) — Charles Treger, 27-year-old American virtuoso, Sunday won the Henryk Wieniawski violin competition, one of Europe's most distinguished musical events.

Treger, a music instructor at the University of Iowa in Iowa City, will receive 40,000

Polish zlotys, which he may convert to approximately $1,700.

The bespectacled, Detroit-born violinist was declared winner, by an international jury, over 4 Russians, 4 Poles, a Frenchman, a Cuban and 16-year-old Connecticut girl. They had advanced to the final stage of the difficult, two-week competition in Poznan, Poland.

Second place went to Oleg Krysa of the Soviet Union. He was followed by Krzysztof Jakowicz of Poland, Isabella Petrosian of the Soviet Union, Miroslav Rusin of the Soviet Union and Priscilla Ambrose of Coventry, Conn., the latter two tied.

The competition, named for the 19th Century Polish composer, is held every 5 years. It is often compared to the Soviet Union's Tchaikovsky piano competition because of the quality of young talent it attracts.

Treger, who as a teen-ager gave up a promising future as a baseball pitcher to protect his hands for the violin, studied at the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, the Aspen Music School and under William Kroll and Sigmund Goldberg of New York.

Treger is the first non-European ever to win this contest, previously held in 1935, 1952 and 1957. His victory, like that of Van Cliburn in Moscow's Tchaikovsky piano competition, should prove an important boost for American prestige in culture-conscious eastern Europe.

Gorbach's Party Gathers Strength, Wins A Plurality

Vienna, Austria (AP) — Chancellor Alfons Gorbach's Conservative Peoples Party picked up strength and won a plurality in Austrian parliamentary elections Sunday for the 6th consecutive time since World War II.

The Conservatives were unable, however, to capture a majority which might allow them to govern alone, and all signs pointed to a continuation of the Conservative-Socialist coalition. The Communists were again shut out of parliament and suffered losses in the popular vote.

At stake were 165 seats in the chamber of deputies. The Conservatives captured 81, an increase of 2 over the last parliamentary elections, in 1959.

Jail Prisoner Slashes Wrist

Police said Sunday a 24-year-old federal prisoner had slashed his left wrist with a razor blade at the City Jail over the weekend.

James E. Cole had 8 stitches taken to close the cut at Lincoln General Hospital and was returned to his cell, officers said.

Cole is being held for federal authorities for violation of the Dyer Act, police said. The Dyer Act forbids transporting a stolen car across state lines.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Savings Can Be Basis For Independence And Integrity

By Merryly S. Rukeyser Jerome Metzger, a thoughtful Wall Street stock broker, knows that only prudent customers stay on his books for a long period.

A personable young lady—a secretary — proposed putting $500 in an unpromising low priced promotional stock, which in the lingo of the market place is in the cat and dog category. In order to shock the customer into a sense of reality, Mr. Metzger pointed out that she doubtless uses wine and strategy to weehee a $10 a week raise out of her boss. Then the broker explained that, if she saves all the increase and takes care of the tax liability out of other funds, it will take her 50 weeks to accumulate $500. In the circumstances, he cautioned that she should not invest it lightly without analytical thought or competent advice.

The debonair cliché, "it's only money," which is used in time of panic to calm the frightened, is only a half truth.

In the adventure of life, we pay for our mistakes. There comes to mind the case of a multimillionaire realtor, who was cleaned out in the Big Depression because he had overmortgaged his holdings and could not retain them during the financial storm. Years later in his old age, when he was stricken with illness, he had minimal care and, when he needed comfort, his imagination dwelt on what might have been.

Mature View For emotional health, it is important to take a mature view of money. Only those who have a financial margin of safety are in position to think about the subject objectively. The financially affluent knows that money is not the end-all and the be-all of life. At best, it is but a tool. But the absence of funds distorts and exaggerates the importance of money.

On top of this, some half-baked moralists spread confusion. They inculcate the doctrine that money is not important. This is okay for those whose philosophy of life calls for retreat and resignation—a life of "sack cloth and ashes," but an immature person, who denigrates money while aspiring for a high standard of living—for what the economist Thorsten Veblen described as "conspicuous consumption"—is on his way to the psychiatrist's couch.

The key to a balanced view lies in emulating the spirit of accounting. The authentic accountant looks beyond immediately visible costs to concealed costs, such as depreciation. Depreciation, when applied to machinery and buildings, is the process of deterioration or wearing out. Nowadays, with greater research and resultant rapid technological change, there is the companion cost of obsolescence, which is the process of becoming outdated and out of fashion. Depletion, when applied to natural resources, including petroleum and minerals, is the fact of using up irreplaceable assets beneath the surface.

Prior to the New Deal, the Internal Revenue Law gave the human being tax credits analogous to allowances to inanimate property for depreciation, obsolescence and depletion. This took the form of an automatic 25% deduction from net taxable income of so-called earned income, namely, proceeds from salary, wages and fees for services. In the hunger for revenues in the 1930's, this allowance was successfully whittled down, and it has been discontinued since World War II.

Correction Needed In the search for tax reform, this anomaly of treating inanimate assets more tenderly taxwise than human beings needs correction.

Be this as it may, the prudent man, in formulating his life financial plan, should during productive years set up reserves (in the form of unspent income) for the future. This is good bookkeeping. For part of the individual's true cost is the using up of human capital in the form of energy, life expectancy, and ability to stay in vogue.

This approach is more specific than vague adherence to such abstractions as the ideal of thrift.

At best, merchandising has never been able to make saving as exciting and dramatic as immediate spending. There is room for creative improvement in this direction. For example, in competition with impulse spending, life insurance agents have felt that they were handicapped because they offered a deferred benefit realizable at some indefinite time in the future. But this approach is unimaginative. The family head, who creates an estate by the stroke of a pen is buying a life contract, which will give buying power to his dependents after his death, in truth receives an immediate gain. This takes the form of peace of mind.

Spending Versus Savings As a matter of fact, the competition between immediate spending and thrift is an artificial conflict. From a practical standpoint, saving becomes more emotionally appealing when described as a time bomb in the individual's arsenal of spending. Saving in the form of a balanced portfolio, instead of being an alternative to spending, is a device for assuring the right of an individual and his dependents to spend at a deferred period in the future when the current income stream may diminish.

Thus, the wastrel, who currently spends all, has ignored the facts of life. He has cheated an old man (himself in later years) and thus deprived himself of a deferred ability to spend. (Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a number puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. Use the number of letters in 4 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message in letters under the checked figures gives you.
